THAT

Now that Brotherhood Week is over, we can all go back to hating each other. With the help of the people who are flooding our country with hate literature. But the literature's only a symptom of a sickness. Every time we feel put down, stymied, or frustrated, some of us take it out on our neighbor. Especially if he's black. Jewish. Irish. Italian. WASP. We've already got a million little civil wars going among us. Do we want one big one? That can't happen here? It's already started. Come spring, we'll be hearing the hatemongers on Boston Common again. Next year, we may be shooting each other in the streets for no good reason. Just hate. We're not going to suggest that you start being a nice guy and loving your neighbor just because it's good for you and your conscience. We are going to suggest that if we don't stop thinking, talking, and teaching hate, all of us are going to pay the bill for it. In money, property, and blood. And so will our wives. And our children. And their children. So stop that, will you? This may be our last chance. This ad is paid for by 10 Boston banks who are shocked by what's going on. And what it leads to.
